

```
import numpy as np
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt
#from google.colab import widgets # Removed this import
from ipywidgets import interact, IntSlider, FloatSlider # Import FloatSlider from ipywidg

Simulated LED Brightness Control
def led_brightness_control(brightness):
    fig, ax = plt.subplots(figsize=(2, 2))
    ax.set_facecolor((0, 0, 0)) # Black background ax.set_xticks([])
    ax.set_yticks([])
    ax.set_xlim(0, 1)
    ax.set_ylim(0, 1)

    # LED represented as a circle with brightness led_color = (1, 1, 0, brightness / 100) # Yellow LED with alpha transparency circle = plt.Circle((0.5, 0.5), 0.3, color=led_color) ax.add_patch(circle)

    plt.show()

Create matplotlib figure
fig, ax = plt.subplots()
plt.subplots_adjust(left=0.1, bottom=0.25)

Add a slider
ax_slider = plt.axes([0.1, 0.1, 0.8, 0.05]) slider = FloatSlider(min=0, max=100, step=1, value=50, description='Brightness') # Use F1

Update function
def update_brightness(val):
    led_brightness_control(val)
    print(f"Brightness: {val}%")

Interactive control
interact(update_brightness, val=slider);
```

Brightness: 50.0%

Start coding or generate with AI.